Time We Gave Schools Help on Assessments

On Tuesday 1,163 electors of Hope School District 1-A turned down the School Board's request for a 5-mill tax increase by 766 to 397. This being the second time in recent years that the district has rejected the proposal to run the 35-mill levy up to 40, each time by nearly two to one, on a turnout of more than 1,000 voters—the verdict is definite.

I respectfully submit that the people have spoken and that the only alternative before the school managers now is to set up a continuing appraisal program and raise the deplorably low level of property assessments in Hempstead county.

This newspaper concedes the schools should have more money, if for no other reason than the fact that their costs are inflated while the property base against which taxes are levied remains absurdly low.

The School Board, for its part, conceded the newspaper's analysis was correct, in a statement the board issued Oct. 27. The Board said our district millage is only 2 mills below the state-wide average; teachers' salaries are under those of 60% of the state's districts—while the assessed valuation per child is one of the lowest in the entire state.

In an editorial before the election The Star pointed out that back in 1929, in the days of a 100-cent dollar, Hempstead county had a total assessment of $8,132,592—worth today in terms of today's 33-cent dollar, about 24 millions. The assessment total dropped to a low of $5,723,896 in 1935—and literally never has come back. The current total (1960) is $13,317,015—just about half the 1929 total in terms of today's dollar, and this assumes we haven't put up a new building or made any improvements in all the years since 1929.

Prodded by this newspaper into finally recognizing the situation, Hope School District 1-A in 1958 headed up a group of taxing units—school districts and town governments—in organizing a county-wide appraisal to bolster the assessing level. That campaign netted the Hope District $16,000 additional tax revenue a year.

But what should have been a continuing program was dropped after one year. In Arkansas we operate under the handicap of a constitution which makes the Tax Assessor office elective, and which, furthermore, clothes the elective office of County Judge with arbitrary power to reduce assessments once they have been raised. This permits the most unscrupulous of citizens to threaten elective officials with retaliation unless their assessments are cut.

It is obvious, therefore, that the school districts and other taxing units need to offer a continuing appraisal program to back up the elective tax officials and beat off political threats.

The county-wide appraisal program should be revived at once, and this time made a continuing organization. Initial cost of the 1958 appraisal was $15,000.

What The Star suggests is this:

That the business and industrial people of Hope underwrite $7,500—half of the first year's cost of the appraisal program—as a starter for the school folks; and let them take it from there. The Star will make a substantial contribution, and we ought to get some help from the tax-exempt Water & Light Plant.

Hope Chamber of Commerce could help with the organizational work and canvassing for donations. This is everybody's fight—and the fighting should begin NOW.

Editor's Note: The following story was distributed by the Associated Press for publication this afternoon throughout Arkansas.

HOPE, Ark. (AP)—Backers of a move to abolish the office of county school supervisor, successful in a test vote here Tuesday, are laying plans for a statewide campaign.

"We're going to circulate material we used in the campaign here to newspapers and interested parties in every Arkansas county which has a supervisor," said Alex Washburn, editor and publisher of the Hope Star. "We'll help anybody who needs help."

Washburn and his newspaper campaigned vigorously in behalf of Herbert Stephens, of Blevins who defeated Forney Holt of Hope for a post on the Hempstead County board of education. Stephens' platform was abolishing the supervisor's office.

"We think this is the first time in Arkansas that this office has been an issue in a clear-cut campaign," Washburn said. "We believe the people have spoken." Washburn is preparing for circulation a handbook aptly titled "How To Get Rid Of The County Supervisor."

Stephens becomes the second member of the county board who favors abolition. The other is Ralph Lehman of Hope. One more vote is needed to do away with the Hempstead County job held by Elmer Brown for many years.

Stephens and Lehman predicted that one of the three remaining board members will come to their view so the office can be abolished without waiting for election of a third abolitionist in next year's school election. Other board members are Hugh Garner of Spring Hill, A. R. Avery of near Blevins and Carl Martin of Washington.

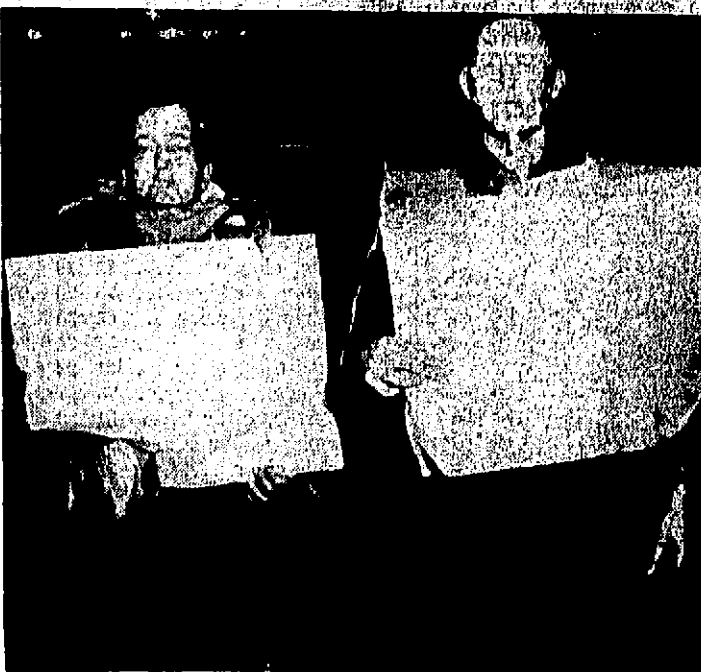

Abolitionists are working under a 1957 law which authorized the county board to do away with the supervisor's office if the board felt it was not needed. Seven counties have abolished the office but abolition has not figured in an election before, Washburn said.

The county board does not administer any given school district. It has general supervisory powers over all districts and hires the supervisor whose job is co-ordination of administration in the districts.

"The supervisor's job may have been necessary when Hempstead County had 25 school districts," Washburn said. "But now, because of consolidation, we have only eight districts and the $10,400 spent each year to maintain the office is wasted money." Brown's salary is $6,000 a year, Washburn said.

Over the state, Washburn said, $625,000 of public school money is spent each year to maintain the 68 supervisor's offices still in existence. He feels most counties, like Hempstead, have consolidated districts to a point when the office is no longer needed.

While he is grateful for the 1957 law, Act 159, which opened the door to abolition, Washburn is not satisfied with it. It works a hardship on the movement, he said, because of the manner in which it zones counties for voting on

7 Counties Have No Supervisor

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The State Education Department said today that the seven counties which no longer have a school supervisor are Boone, Cleveland, Cross, Grant, Lincoln, Nevada and Scott.

All except Scott will retain a clerk or secretary for the county Board of Education, however. Scott, with only one school district, doesn't employ this clerical help.

A spokesman for the Boone County Board of Education at Harrison said today it had cost $2,262.25 a year to operate the supervisor's office. This has been reduced to the $2,700 salary paid a secretary.

School Trial Reset to Dec. 28

DE WITT, Ark. (AP)—Oral arguments in a taxpayers' suit against the De Witt School Board have been reset from Dec. 19 to Dec. 28.

The suit charges the board with improper business transactions. The defendants have denied the allegations.

Testimony in the case was heard by Chancellor Lawrence E. Dawson last week.

Mrs. Schooley was a member of the Methodist Church and was very active in 4-H and 4-H Club work.

Has U. S. Support

SEOUL (AP)—Gen. Chung-Hee Park, chairman of the South Korean military junta, said today he has secured President Kennedy's full support for his revolutionary government and its economic reforms.

If added, however, that the U.S. President during Park's November visit to Washington, did not commit his government to any specific amount of additional economic aid for South Korea.

Jobless Rate Drops, Says Late Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—The unemployment rate dropped last month for the first time in a year, President Kennedy reported today.

The rate fell from 6.8 per cent of the work force, where it has remained nearly constant for 11 months, to 6.1 per cent, Kennedy told the AFL-CIO convention in Miami, Fla.

Labor Department officials planned to give the complete November job picture later, Kennedy announced the unemployment rate in his speech.

The President also said the number of persons employed during November set a record for the month—67,349,000.

The October job figures showed 67.8 million at work. The drop of 500,000 in the total employed during November reflects the seasonal shutdown in farming, construction and other outdoor jobs. But the rise in unemployment was less than seasonal, accounting for the lower rate.

UN Planes Strike at Katanga Fuel, Ammunition Sites

By JOHN LATZ

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—U.N. jet fighters today struck at Katangan ammunition dumps six miles outside Elisabethville and explosions rocked the heart of the capital. Katangans launched another attack against the U.N. headquarters just outside of the city at daybreak after a tropical thunderstorm brought firing to a halt during the night.

(The U.S. Embassy in Leopoldville said an American Air Force Globemaster was fired on over Elisabethville, and the U.S. airlift was suspended while commanders in Leopoldville and Washington consulted on security arrangements for the American planes.)

(American sources said the small arms firing came from the official residence of the Katanga President Moise Tshombe while the Globemaster was coming in to land at Elisabethville Airport. Several bullets hit the fuselage but no serious damage was caused.) Tshombe's villa is on one of the approaches to the airport.

(The Globemaster was one of six heavy transports carrying reinforcements and supplies to U.N. forces in the Katanga capital. The report from Leopoldville said the United States agreed to the airlift on condition that the transports would be given full protective cover. Ethiopian Sabre Jets escorted the first Globemasters Wednesday but it was not known in Leopoldville whether today's flights were escorted.)

(The U.S. State Department announced Wednesday night that it was offering the U.N. 21 more four-engine transports.)

Foreign Minister Evmariste Kimba eloped U.S. Consul Lewis Hoffacker, 38, under house arrest, charging that U.S. planes made the U.N. raids Wednesday off Katanga air bases at Kolwezi and Jadotville. Both the U.S. government and the U.N. command denied that American planes were involved, but Hoffacker stayed at home today.

The consul said he felt quite safe and was trying to arrange transfer of Americans in Elisabethville, including members of

Warning Fails to Halt Troop Flow to Berlin

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP)—First units of an American battle group rolled into West Berlin today after the Communists voiced a new threat against use of the highway lifeline from West Germany.

The 110-mile ride down the autobahn came after Communist East Germany declared freedom movements of U.S. North Atlantic Treaty Organization troops along the highway had never been guaranteed by the East Germans or the Soviet Union.

U.S. officials in Paris commented that the troops moving to Berlin are definitely under U.S. and not NATO control.

The Soviets have called recent U.S. tests of Allied access rights to Communist-enclosed West Berlin provocations "fraught with dangerous consequences."

Co. 15, 1st Battle Group, 10th Infantry—about 200 men and 25 jeeps and trucks—began crossing West Berlin's "Checkpoint Bravo" after an uneventful trip through East Germany.

Soviet guards checked the company on the road near Marienborn, just inside the Iron Curtain border of West Germany. Another Soviet detachment checked them out at Babelsberg on the edge of West Berlin.

On the way to Berlin, the east-bound convoy passed a small group of vehicles from the 1st Battle Group, 10th Infantry, carrying men westward. This group, headed for Kassel, arrived in West Germany after what its commander called an uneventful

Individual Farm Acreage Is Alloted

Notices of individual farm acreage allotments for the 1962 upland cotton crop have been mailed to farmers in Hempstead County, according to Claudio Self, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee. He points out that any questions about the allotments should be taken up immediately with the ASC Committee.

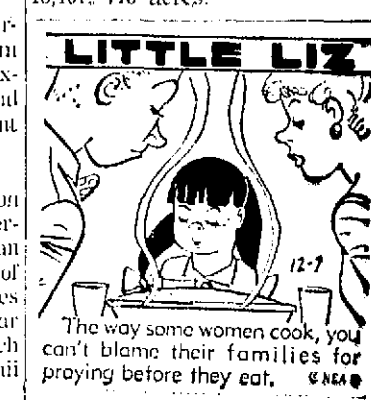

The chairman declared that the intention is to let farmers know how the allotment program will affect their farms in advance of the Dec. 12 referendum on marketing quotas for the 1962 upland cotton crop. A favorable vote by at least two-thirds of the voters voting is necessary in order to keep the quotas in effect.

Growers eligible to vote are all farmers who engaged in production of upland cotton in 1961.

If the vote is favorable, Self explained, quotas will apply to the 1962 upland cotton crop, with penalties on any "excess" cotton produced, and price support to growers who comply with their farm allotments will be available at the full effective level—within a range of from 65 to 90 per cent of parity.

If the vote is unfavorable, he added, there will be no quotas or penalties on the 1962 crop, and price support to growers who comply with their farm allotment will be available at 50 per cent of parity.

Hempstead received an allotment of 10,531 acres for distribution to growers producing their 1962 upland cotton crop. This represented the county's share of the national allotment acreage of 13,101, 718 acres.

The deputy commander of the Berlin-bound troops, Lt. Col. William J. Herman of South Norwalk, Conn., made a roundtrip on the autobahn and reported he noticed nothing unusual except that East German police seemed to be out in larger numbers.

The 1st Battle Group numbers 1,500 men. Veterans recalled that the 19th Infantry was stationed at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, exactly 20 years ago today during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

A mongrel dog named "Leg" rode in one of the leading vehicles. The dog, the battle group mascot, had her own serial number on the unit manifest shown to the Soviet guards at the checkpoint.

The incoming 1st Battle Group of the 19th Infantry Division, commanded by Col. Ira Palm, 48, of Mount Vernon, N.Y., is relieving the 18th Infantry's 1st Battle Group, which was rushed to Berlin last August after the Communists threw up their wall dividing the city.

The relief unit will make the autobahn run in small convoys daily, with the operation to take about a week. As the first unit moved out today, another moved up to a bivouac area near the border to prepare for its move to Berlin Friday.

West German truck drivers traveling the autobahn Wednesday night said East Germany had increased its patrols along the route. Other sources said Soviet trucks loaded with troops also had been seen along the superhighway.

American officers said Soviet liaison officers in West Germany kept the relief convoy under constant surveillance as it moved up to the Helmstedt crossing point.

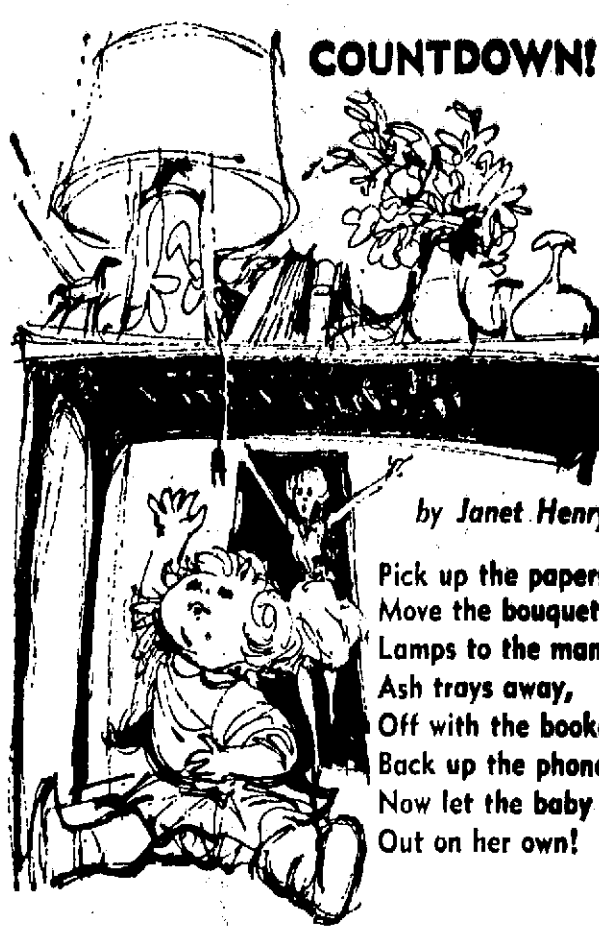

The U.S. Army has repeatedly ignored Soviet warnings against increased troop movements on the autobahn, asserting that it has the right to utilize the route freely.

The autobahn is the only road the Communists allow the Western powers to use through East Germany and Helmstedt.

county board members.

In his county, for example, the Hope district, which has about half the school population, is represented by only one member. Three members are elected in the rural districts and on in a countywide race. Stephens was a countywide candidate and he got his strongest backing in Hope.

Washburn pointed out that both board members who run in Hope—Stephens and Lehman—now are committed to abolition. But rural areas are not so strong for it, he said, and one of the rural members must be won over or defeated before the movement can be effective.

Washburn learned Wednesday that a movement is underway in Missouri to rid the state of the county superintendent's office—the job equivalent to supervisor in Arkansas. The Missouri campaign, however, has the backing of the governor and legislative leaders. He was informed of the Missouri situation by Sam Andrews, a former Hope mayor, who now lives in Jefferson City, Mo.

"We could use support from state government leaders in Arkansas," Washburn said.

"I think this movement is going to catch on over the state as soon as people realize the job can be done," he added. "It may take a

Can't See U. S. in Common Market

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP)—Sen. J. William Fulbright said here Wednesday night that he did not expect the United States to join the European Common Market in the "foreseeable future."

He said he thought the market would strengthen Western Europe. Fulbright spoke at a public meeting sponsored by 16 organizations, including the Paragould Chamber of Commerce and the Greene County Democratic Committee.

Fulbright said he was disturbed by persons who talked an anti-communist viewpoint but did not support programs that helped fight communism in foreign countries.

He said he had "no doubt but that Western Europe would have fallen under communism had it not been for the Marshall Plan."

Coming and Going
Mrs. Era Berger has returned from a two weeks visit with her daughter and son in law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard West of Dallas.
Dr. Benjamin Newbern, internist at the U of Minn. School of Medicine in Minneapolis, has returned.

Dear Helen: I'm on the verge of telling my mother-in-law to get out. I fear things will be said which can never be forgiven but if she doesn't leave I can't hold back any longer.
For seven long years she's been a specter at the feast. Until her advent, ours was a happy home. My husband and I dearly love each other and our two girls but now, so many things are left unsaid because of her.
Ours is no longer a normal life. There she sits, long-faced and glum between my husband and myself at table. For weeks at a time she won't put foot outside, preferring to poke through the house like a spook. I retreat to my bedroom and lock the door.
Until a few months ago I was able to hide my feelings but this is no longer possible. Yesterday I attempted to explain that our marriage would crack up if she insisted upon remaining with us. She replied by crying I was trying to railroad her into the poor house. Nothing could be further from mind. I simply suggested that she might be happier with an old friend who has a comfortable home, is a lovely person and wants somebody to live with her. My mother-in-law says she'll die if separated from her son and grandchildren. I once loved her and still might if I didn't see her 24 hours a day.
My sense of humor is withering on the vine. With nerves at the breaking point, I take it out on our children. Maybe you could persuade my mother-in-law to give us a chance, by publishing this letter and your reply. She and her friends read and discuss your column. —Unhappy Wife

Dear Unhappy: If your mother-in-law could only realize that her vicarious existence benefits no one, least of all those she loves. She is thinking negatively when declaring she will die if separated from her son and grandchildren. How much more constructive to take the positive course and prove her love for them by living more fully.

To do this she must lead her own life and it can be a rich one if she so wills it. A word of encouragement from her son, rather than you, because he is her blood relative, would help. If financially practical, he should provide her with a small apartment or, as you suggest, arrange for her to move in with her old friend. But, he, not you, should take the initiative. It won't be easy but the stark truth is he must choose between his family and his mother. Remind him that two women of different generations, living under the same roof, spell trouble.

Dear Helen: I am an 18-year-old girl in love with a 26-year-old man. But we hesitate to marry because of the difference in age. Our families say we will make a go of it provided our love is deep enough. What do you think? —Hopeful, Spanish Fork, Utah

Dear Hopeful: My grandmother was 16 and my grandfather 24 when they married. I have never known a happier couple. They literally lived for one another all 61 years of their married life but they had been disciplined early, having grown up in the stormy years preceding and during the Civil War.

Grandfather was barely 18 when he enlisted as a private in the Federal forces and only 24 when mustered out a Colonel with every commission received on the field. Grandmother had her share of experience, too, for the Southeastern Ohio country where she lived was the scene of guerrilla warfare. So, both were certainly qualified to make decisions and accept responsibilities by the time they married. It is the psychological, not physiological, maturity of the individual which really counts.

Dear Helen: I love a wonderful turned there after a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Newbern Jr.

Mrs. Lyle Brown and Mrs. Harold Porterfield visited in Forrest City Monday and Tuesday. Master Lyle Lockhart accompanied his grandmother home for a visit with her and Judge Brown.

Says Defense Dept. Has Mismanaged

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP)—A Wisconsin congressman accused the Defense Department today of "incredible mismanagement" in the length of time it took to make funds available for units recently called to duty.

gress granted the department the needed authority for such expenditures on Aug. 17.

Limiting his comments to the 32nd Infantry Division, a Wisconsin National Guard outfit training here, Laird said the Pentagon did not make this authority available to the Department of the Army until Oct. 31.

He said it took the Army until Nov. 18 to transmit this authority to the field command.

"This incredible mismanagement will be called to the attention of the highest officials in the Defense Department with the request that appropriate corrective action in mobilization planning be taken immediately," Laird said.

Laird, who arrived Tuesday on an official visit as a member of the House Military Construction Subcommittee, said his full report would be given to the House Defense Appropriations Subcommittee and would contain a list of all the complaints made by members of the 32nd Division. He said all of them are going to be answered in detail.

THE PRINTED WORD—Newspapers are here to stay. Not that anyone doubted it, but a recent survey shows that newspapers reach every segment of the American public and are an important part of most of our lives. Highlights of the survey, supervised by the American Newspaper Publishers Association, are shown in the chart above. The survey covered 4,826 interviews with persons 15 years and up in 622 different places. Other figures: 72 per cent of the country's teen-agers (15 to 20) read a newspaper on any given day; for adults, it is 88 per cent. Interestingly, 49 per cent of those interviewed said they would "feel quite lost" without a newspaper; only 28 per cent felt that way about television. Heaviest readership is among the better-educated, higher-income class of people.

Recession Power Asked by Kennedy

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy told organized labor today he will ask Congress for standby power to launch public projects that would put men to work in case of a recession.

Kennedy, in a speech prepared for a AFL-CIO convention, also touched a sore spot in the labor federation as well as some employers when he said that discrimination against Negroes "is a blot on our democracy and a drag on our economy."

The President announced that November employment reached a new high for the month at 67,349,000. Moreover, he said, unemployment in November fell below 6.8 per cent, of the labor force for the first time in a year. The rate was 6.1 per cent.

Carrying on a campaign for broad authority to negotiate reciprocal tariff cuts, Kennedy also told the union leaders he would propose measures to help communities, industries and working men hurt by competition from imported goods.

He rejected "permanent government paternalism," advocating instead a program that would add to and coordinate present plans for areas already hit by unemployment for small business incentives to investment in new plants and the retraining and women.

"Temporary tariff relief may be a part of the prescription in a commission headed by Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts. Whatever is required, we will make certain that no community suffers unduly from trade. For, on the contrary, America must trade—or suffer."

Thinks GOP Can Win in 3rd District

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Winthrop Rockefeller, the national Republican national committeeman, "it looks like we have a good opportunity in the 3rd Congressional District against Rep. James E. Trimble."

He made the remark while assessing the present strength of his party in Arkansas in a speech at a meeting sponsored by the Craighead County Young Republicans.

Rockefeller also said, "I think we should show Gov. Orval E. Faubus the courtesy of running a good strong candidate for the governor's office."

He reminded his audience that Richard Nixon had carried 23 counties in the state during the past presidential election and said he believed the party could win some offices in these counties if they would try for them.

Earlier in a news conference, Rockefeller said the new concept of the Republican party this year in Arkansas is to develop it from the "grass roots level."

In so doing, Rockefeller said, party leaders are concentrating on four areas — young Republicans, senior citizens, women and the formation of new Republican clubs.

He said about half of the people who appeared at meetings where he spoke were "dissatisfied Democrats" or independent voters.

Pearl Harbor Closed Issue at Pentagon

By ELTON C. FAY
Military Affairs Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon considers a closed matter the question of why the United States was caught off guard at Pearl Harbor.

The word today—the 20th anniversary of the surprise Japanese attack—is that no more official investigations are expected.

Authors continue to write books debating the issues of that day when the high command at Hawaii was surprised by the strike of 300 planes from six Japanese carriers and midjet submarine attacks.

But the Defense Department foresees no more official probes into the long and hotly debated subject of who, if anyone, was to blame for the tragic moment of unreadiness.

There have been eight official plans and inquiries. The first, ordered by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, was opened only 12 days after the attack and was conducted by a commission headed by Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts.

"Whatever is required, we will make certain that no community suffers unduly from trade. For, on the contrary, America must trade—or suffer."

This Is Day the Japanese Attack U.S.

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — "In this missile and thermonuclear age, it would be foolhardy indeed to assume that surprise attack will never be a possibility."

This warning was delivered today by Adm. John H. Sides, commander of the U.S. Pacific Fleet, at ceremonies marking the 20th anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Ceremonies were held on a platform above the waters along "Buttleship Row." Activity throughout the naval base halted momentarily in memory of that black Sunday—Dec. 7, 1941.

The ceremony was timed to coincide with the exact moment—7:55 a.m.—when the first Japanese planes swooped low over the battleships lining the northeast shores of Ford Island.

Below the memorial platform for the U.S. Arizona, center of today's ceremonies, was the rusting hull of the warship and the remains of 1,102 crewmen who went down with her. The Arizona and her crew are symbols of those hours when war came to the United States.

South of the Arizona the old battleship row was vacant. But between the flag flying above the Arizona and one beside Ford Island's administration building—less than a mile away—nearly 2,000 men died on a Sunday morning.

"The lessons learned (that day) are recorded in blood," said Sides in his memorial address.

"The important thing for us here today, and for all Americans, is to pledge anew that our country shall always remain strong and shall always be ready to defend the freedoms for which we stand and for which these men fought and died."

Shoplifting Costly to Merchants

By GIL MAYO
CHICAGO (AP)—Shoplifting is mostly obedience to an impulse by otherwise honest people whose petty pilferage will cost American merchants more than $500 million during December.

The conclusion and estimate of loss is by Norman Industries, Inc., of Chicago, a theft-prevention engineering firm.

Norman Kiven, president, said the peak of Christmas shopping also will be the peak of shoplifting. It will become so prevalent in some stores, he said, that the merchants will find when the rush is over they actually operated in the red.

One large store in the Midwest recently reported it apprehended 57 shoplifters in a two-week period before Christmas shopping began. The average attempted theft in those cases involved merchandise valued at $11.48.

Kiven said his statistics show that only about 10 per cent of shoplifters are professionals. He described the others as ordinary people of whom 90 per cent are women.

"Contrary to what most people think," Kiven said, "the middle income and richer customers are responsible for greater losses."

People with smaller incomes are satisfied with the smaller impulse-type merchandise.

Kiven said reports by merchants show that shoplifting has risen 14 per cent in the last year. The ranks of shoplifters sometimes include employees of the stores themselves, Kiven said.

He cited a department store in Detroit which asked its employees to take a lie test with a pledge of immunity from any guilt that might be shown. After the tests, 76 per cent of the employees admitted stealing $100 or more each during the preceding six months.

Springdale Has Gas Price War

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP) — A gasoline price war here has pushed the retail cost of the fuel to as low as 18.9 cents a gallon.

That was the price today for regular gasoline at independent dealers, who were charging 23.9 cents for premium grades.

Major companies were charging 20.9 cents for regular and 25.9 cents for premium.

The price reductions started about a week ago with one-and two-cent-a-gallon cuts.

By last Thursday a 27.9 cent cost for regular gasoline was common, and the drop has continued since then.

The price war hasn't spared other nearby towns.

May Complete Dam by July

HEBER SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Army Engineers predicted Wednesday the nearby Greers Ferry Dam may be completed by next July, six months ahead of schedule.

W. H. Sherman, resident engineer for the project, said the dam contractor is 93 per cent finished with the work.

Sherman said the dam is already usable for flood control work but the reservoir isn't scheduled to begin filling until after Jan. 1.

He said that although work on the dam is nearing completion, the powerhouse will not be in operation until April, 1964.

HOTTEST NOVEMBER IN FORD HISTORY!

And here's what started the heat wave!

Last month more Americans bought Fords than in any November in history. The blazing success of the long Ford line was end-to-end, all across the country and up and down it, too. ■ Everywhere the people flocked into their Ford Dealers and bought smart new Falcons, and the new Falcon Squire, the glittering swift Galaxies, the famous Ford Station Wagons and the hot Thunderbirds. And they poured in to see and buy up the brand-new Fairlanes just introduced. ■ There are four magic reasons why behind the smashing success of the long Ford line for 1962. First of all is utterly modern styling, the fresh crisp lines that are now being so widely copied by other car-makers, the smart look that dominates the industry. Second is absolute power in eleven kinds of engines, giving you anything you could want in engine options. Third is total economy—every Ford model is priced directly at your pocketbook, and every Ford, large, medium or small, gives you gasoline mileage outstanding in its class. Fourth is the service-saving concept—every Ford car is built to cut down maintenance worries and problems, with service-saving features other cars may have some day. ■ Ford leadership from Falcons to Thunderbirds is founded on trend-setting innovations... The hot ideas come from Ford. And at the heart of Ford success is an almost revolutionary new concept of quality... most serious and direct concern with the actual part-by-part quality. For the hot trends in the hot cars, for a new experience in quality, and for the best buys on the American Road, see your Ford Dealer.

NOW THERE ARE FOUR CLASSES OF CARS ... AND ONLY FORD HAS ALL FOUR!

COMPACT CLASS:

FORD FALCON

This class includes cars with 106- to 114-inch wheelbase. Most popular by far (a million happy owners!) is the Ford Falcon. Falcon is America's lowest-priced 6-passenger car, set a 25-year record for Sixes or Eights in last spring's Mobilgas Economy Run, gives you a choice of 13 models, including the Futura and new Falcon Squire wagon.

FAIRLANE CLASS:

FORD FAIRLANE

The Ford Fairlane is the first member of a new class which combines the advantages of both compact and big cars... you get big car room, ride and performance... compact savings and maneuverability. Priced below many compacts, Fairlane even rivals some in gas economy. Has twice-a-year maintenance introduced by the Galaxy.

FULL-SIZE CLASS:

GALAXIE BY FORD

The class for families who want big car comfort, performance and prestige. Value leader is the Ford Galaxy, which has every essential feature of far costlier fine cars. With the optional Thunderbird 390 V-8 engine, a Galaxy will outperform America's most expensive luxury cars. Requires servicing only twice a year, or every 6,000 miles.

LUXURY CLASS:

FORD THUNDERBIRD

The top class—cars for people who want the very finest. First of the trim-size luxury cars, the 4-passenger Thunderbird is the most distinctive car in this class. Its styling set the trend for an entire generation of cars and now finds a new elegance in the Landau. And Thunderbird's performance is just this side of flight.

Colleges, AAU Study Over a Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Col. Jones and the Amateur Athletic Union studied today a plan to compromise their dispute over control of U.S. basketball.

The proposal by Louis G. Wilke of Bartlesville, Okla., sets up a delicate power balance between the AAU and the National Collegiate Athletic Association. It also provides representation for other groups interested in amateur basketball.

All groups present at Wednesday's meeting here will report their views on the proposal to Wilke before Dec. 27. Wilke, vice president of the Federation of International Basketball Associations (FIBA), was chosen by FIBA to edit the dispute.

When he gets the reaction of the various groups to his proposal, Wilke will decide whether a solution is possible or whether the dispute should be tossed back into the lap of the international group for settlement.

In Rome last year, the NCAA-led college group petitioned FIBA for recognition of a new federation which would divide among several groups the international representation now held by the AAU.

Wilke's plan calls for a national amateur basketball council similar to the federation proposed by the NCAA.

Both groups were cautious in their comments, but AAU officials called it "a step in the right direction."

Council membership, as proposed by Wilke, would include the AAU, NCAA, National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics, YMCA, National Jewish Welfare Board, National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, the Catholic Youth Organization, Junior College Federation and the Armed Services.

Baylor Hopes to Handle Bigger Utah

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Baylor Bears know it must feast on beef to beat Utah State in the inaugural Gotham Bowl game at the Polo Grounds Saturday.

Coach John Bridgers thinks the Bears' pro-type offense may be just the answer.

"I know," the Baylor coach said after he led his 40-man squad into New York from Waco, Tex., Wednesday night and was reminded that unbeaten Utah State will outweigh the Bears by about 20 pounds a man. Included in the Utah beef-trust are three linemen, Merlin Olsen, Clark Miller and Clyde Brock — each of whom goes 250 or better up to Olsen's 275.

"But we like to pass a lot," Bridgers added, "and we aren't afraid to throw from anywhere on the field. We're kind of hoping that our passing will open them up a bit."

The Bears, although they had only a 5-5 season record to Utah State's 9-0-1, were able to beat Pitt and Texas Christian, both of whom have plenty of bulk, especially in the line, year after year.

Both clubs scheduled workouts today, cheered by the announcement that the game would be televised nationally by ABC—starting at 1:15 p.m. (Eastern Standard Time). Baylor and Utah had accepted invitations on the basis of an equal split of 75 percent of the gross gate, including any TV or radio money. The television contract reportedly calls for about $100,000.

Ohio State May Be in Trouble, Lucas Is Hurt

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just how effective Ohio State's basketball forces are without its top marksman, Jerry Lucas, or possibly with a sub-par Lucas in the lineup, may be determined this weekend when the first-ranked Buckeyes face Wichita and Wake Forest.

Lucas' availability was in doubt today after Ohio State had polished off Pittsburgh 99-97 Wednesday night. The two-time All-America, hobbled by knee trouble, scored 23 points—18 in the second half—as the Big Ten champions won their second straight game.

In the dressing room after the game Lucas said: "It's my knees again. They were worse than they've ever been. They are swollen and inflamed. I don't know if I'll be playing this weekend. I'll have to talk to the trainer."

Ohio State entertains Wichita Friday night and visits Wake Forest Saturday. Wake Forest was rated No. 3 in the pre-season Associated Press poll. Wichita has won four in a row.

Only two other top ten teams saw action Wednesday night and both posted victories. Fifth-ranked Providence turned back Boston College 77-73 and St. John's, No. 9, whipped George Washington 79-65. Well-regarded Utah drubbed Western Texas State 96-61.

Winter in the Woodlands...

Pictures by Lynwood M. Chace, noted nature photographer of New Bedford, Mass.

The varying hare wears a camouflaging fur coat to suit the season. Left, he's in his summer color. Right, with the woodland dressed in snow, his coat has turned white.

A badger comes up to get some air, but will go down in his warm underground den to sleep the rest of the winter.

This chipmunk is in deep hibernation, unaware that his nest has been invaded by the inquisitive cameraman.

The cold winter months present a most difficult problem for the red fox in the way of food. He has to do a tremendous lot of hunting for a meal in the snowbound forest.

Doesn't Want to Be Another Robinson

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Ernie Davis says he's not interested in becoming a guinea pig in a professional football racial dispute.

"I wish they would quit bringing up this race stuff," the Syracuse University halfback said today. "I don't want to be another Jackie Robinson. I just want to play football, and I'll go where I can get the best offer."

The 210-pound Davis Wednesday night became the first Negro in 27 years to receive the Heisman Trophy as the best college player of the year.

Now he finds himself the pawn in a giant tug-of-war between the National and American Football Leagues on the one hand and the government and George Marshall's Washington Redskins on the other.

Davis was the first pick of the Redskins after Marshall, whose teams have been picketed by racial groups, was given a stiff warning by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall. Marshall was told he must hire a Negro player to prove himself innocent of discriminatory practices.

The Redskins are the only NFL team that has never had a Negro player.

The Syracuse halfback also was drafted by the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League. He says he has been contacted also by several Canadian teams, with Calgary making a particularly good offer.

On top of this, Harry Wismer, owner of the New York Titans, insists that he will make every effort to get the rights to Davis from Buffalo and will pay him $100,000 for three years, plus a $25,000 bonus.

Asked about the different offers, Davis was noncommittal but said he was interested.

More State All-Star Selections

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Searcy, co-champion of District 2A, is the only team to place three men on the Class A All-State football team, picked by coaches and announced today by the Arkansas Athletic Association.

Back Jim Tarkington and tackle Claude Smithy and center Larry Stokes were named contenders to the 22-man first team.

Fort Smith, St. Anne's, which had its long winning streak snapped early this season but still wound up with a 7-1-1 record, placed two men. They were guard Gene Sharron and back Martine Bercher.

The other 17 are from 17 different schools:

ENDS: Don Shipley, Mountain Home; Joe Huie, Waldron; Franklin Roberts, Hot Springs Lakeside; Richard Spraggins, Warren.

TACKLES: Sonny Moss, Osceola; Dean Pitts, Clarksville; Benny Estes, Fordyce.

GUARDS: Les Creamer, Bryant; The 1,339,000 bales of cotton produced in Arkansas during 1960 resulted from an average yield of 485 pounds of lint per acre on 1,320,000 acres harvested.

Craighead County was named in honor of Thomas Craighead, a Mississippi County Senator who fought bitterly against the formation of the new county.

As for the possibility of holding both the welterweight and National Boxing Association share of the middleweight titles, Alfaro said: "Titles are won or lost in the ring. If we beat Fullmer, we will consider we hold both championships."

Alfaro, a veteran fight man from Cuba himself, does the talking for the non-English speaking Paret, who fights Fullmer here Saturday night in the "TV fight of the week."

Alfaro said Benny, the ex-sugar cane chopping kid, has a mother, a sister and three brothers still living in Cuba.

"He wants to visit them and Cuba only when it is a free country and not under Communist rule. In the meantime, he wants to become an American citizen," said Alfaro.

Alfaro wants no part of his Cuban homeland as long as a man named Fidel Castro is running the country.

Spring Hill, Willisville Split Three

The Powerful Spring Hill Senior boys, winner of the Laneburg tournament last week, continued their winning ways Tuesday night with a 59 to 40 victory over Willisville.

Ronnie Garner hit 23 points. High for Willisville was Rodgers with 11 points.

Spring Hill Junior girls defeated Willisville 20 to 19 in a close one with Jackie Kidd scoring 10 and Pam Butler 5. Goodwin scored 14 for the losers.

The Senior girls lost to Willisville 48 to 36, with Cooper of Willisville scoring one more point than the entire Spring Hill team. Barbara Cox tallied 19 for the losers.

Paret Won't Relinquish His Crown

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba, the undisputed welterweight champion of the world, said today he has no idea of relinquishing his crown if he defeats Gene Fullmer, and wins the Utah brawler's share of the middleweight title.

The 24-year-old Paret, according to his manager, Manuel Alfaro, wants no part of his Cuban homeland as long as a man named Fidel Castro is running the country.

He was appointed supervisor and operator of the Campus Book Store, Ark. Baptist College, and was elected secretary of the trustee board of the college.

First Orbit Attempt Set in January

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first U.S. attempt to send a man into orbit was scheduled today for early January.

The postponement until after the Christmas holidays was announced by the space agency which already has assigned astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. for the attempt to orbit a Mercury capsule.

Previously the hope had been to make the manned shot this year, perhaps as early as Dec. 20.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that the next Mercury orbital launch definitely will be a manned flight, ruling out any more tests with animals.

Space officials had worked hard to try to get the U.S. orbital shot off during 1961 in order to achieve that goal in the same year as the Soviet Union.

The announcement said that, based upon all available data including a preliminary analysis of the recent orbital flight of the chimpanzee Enos, "it appears no further animal or unmanned flights are needed before attempting the specific Mercury mission—manned orbital flight."

The agency added: "Analysis of the Mercury-Atlas chimpanzee flight performance and postflight physical condition of Enos, together with detailed study of the spacecraft, booster and tracking network operation, confirms that the Mercury-Atlas system is ready for manned orbital flight."

Mercury-Atlas Shot No. 6—are progressing satisfactorily for a launch attempt early next year.

"As announced earlier, astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. will be the pilot for the first manned Mercury orbital flight attempt with astronaut M. Scott Carpenter acting as his backup pilot."

Glenn is a Marine Corps captain.

Test Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Polaris missile raced several hundred miles Tuesday night in the second successful test of a new thrust control system.

The Navy, announcing the success, termed the control mechanism an "advanced device being evaluated for possible use in the third generation A3 Polaris, scheduled to become operational in 1964, with a range of 2,875 miles.

Thd counties included were, Nevada, Clark, Hempstead, Miller, Ouchita, Columbia and Union.

This family was honored at a banquet held recently at AM&N College, Pine Bluff, and received a $50 cash award.

The Snowdens have three children, Mearl and Earl (twins) 16, and Bobbie, 11.

They started farming as tenants and now own a 118 acre farm and rent additional land. They had 50 acres of cotton in which he harvested 52 bales; 750 bales of lespedeza hay on 10 acres, 1,625 bushels of corn on 25 acres and many green vegetables year around.

They operate the farm on a budget and keep records of all items bought or sold. Q. Does this make Hollywood a ghost town?
A. No. Employment is at the highest peak in three years.
Q. Then what is all the fuss about?
A. Because high employment is due largely to the 100 TV film series. Theatrical filming is at a minimum.
Q. Why do American film companies shoot abroad?
A. For cheaper costs, foreign subsidies and authentic locales, in that order.
Q. Are films that much cheaper to make abroad?
A. Spectacles are. Hollywood labor has priced itself out of competition in the world film market. American extras get up to $20 a day for doing what the Roman extra does for $3. Sets are cheaper, too.
Q. How do the foreign subsidies work?
A. Movies made in a country might get a kickback from a box office tax. Foreign films may be taxed or admitted by quota only.
Q. Is this unfair competition?
A. Possibly, since the United States imposes no such restrictions, nor does it subsidize its own film industry.
Q. Is Hollywood's plight a serious one?
A. It is getting to be. Runaway films, TV production and selling real estate have kept the big companies in business. But these are stopgap measures that don't meet the big problem: How to maintain a continuity of film making in America.
Q. Why should we care about this?
A. Because though they often exasperate us, Hollywood and the film industry are a national asset and have won us more friends abroad than all the diplomats of history.
Q. What can be done?
A. By the government—study of the film industry's plight, with possible measures to insure fair competition abroad. By the industry—more leadership and creativity in making the kind of entertainment that made Hollywood great.

Films Made Overseas Hurts U.S.

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Much ado about runaways.

Last week's congressional hearing developed some heat but not too much light on the complex matter of American film production overseas. Here is some plain talk about runaways as observed by this reporter at home and abroad.

Q. Has the trend to overseas filming cut Hollywood production drastically?
A. Yes. Of the 38 American films currently shooting, 26 will be made wholly or in part away from Hollywood. Fifteen years ago, less than 10 per cent of American films were shot out location.

Q. Does this make Hollywood a ghost town?
A. No. Employment is at the highest peak in three years.

Q. Then what is all the fuss about?
A. Because high employment is due largely to the 100 TV film series. Theatrical filming is at a minimum.

U. S., Allies in a Trap Over Congo

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and its chief European allies may find themselves entrapped in serious disagreement over U.N. operations in the Congo unless some way is found soon to end the conflict in Katanga Province.

Beyond allied considerations, the way the United Nations deals with the Congo situation is a challenge to its own future.

The problem of coordinating attitudes on the Congo problem seems likely to be one of the issues discussed by President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan when they meet in Bermuda Dec. 21-22.

Meanwhile authorities here are somewhat worried over the evidences of drifting apart which have recently become more apparent. The latest sign of differences of approach in London and Washington developed Wednesday in almost simultaneous government announcements.

In London a British government spokesman, discussing the Katanga crisis in Parliament, declared that the United Nations should not impose a political solution in the Congo by force. However, he said that U.N. military units there have the right of self defense.

In plain language, the British position is that the United Nations has no right to use military forces to compel Katanga President Moise Tshombe to end his secession. The United Nations must rather seek to effect a negotiated solution of his break with the central Congo government at Leopoldville.

In Washington the State Department announced that the U.S. Air Force would make available up to 21 more big transport aircraft to enlarge the American airlift of six transports already ferrying reinforcements for the U.N. the Congo by force. The State Department draws a fine distinction between forceful measures to expel Tshombe's white advisers, here said there is no basic difference over the policy of Congo of military power, and the use of force for the purpose of uniting the Congo with the Congo.

Viet Nam Wants Internal Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government of South Viet Nam has agreed to internal reforms, clearing the way for more U.S. aid in the Southeast Asian nation's battle against Communist guerrillas.

Officials said Tuesday President Ngo Dinh Diem had agreed to the reforms after several weeks of negotiations with U.S. Ambassador Frederick Nolting Jr.

Gen. Maxwell Taylor, military adviser to President Kennedy, toured South Viet Nam in October. He reportedly recommended that before any U.S. increase in military and economic assistance, President Diem should be prevailed upon to make some internal reforms.

Posts Bond for Embezzlement

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP)—Arnold E. Edens, who currently faces prison terms totaling 17 years, posted $7.50 bond Tuesday after being charged with embezzling $10,000.

Edens, a former Paragould investment broker, is accused of embezzling $10,000 entrusted to him by T. P. Harper for the purchase of some land.

The information charging Edens said the alleged embezzlement occurred Nov. 7, 1959.

Edens was convicted previously on similar charges and freedom appeal bonds.

In fact, that the Western European allies, including Belgium and France, now agree that the goliath solution of his break with the central Congo government at Leopoldville.

U. S. Must Fit Into the Trade Blocs

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Fast expansion of the trading-bloc movement throughout the world is accentuated today by President Kennedy's calling for ways to fit the United States into a new way of international economic life.

The blocs are already powerful in Western Europe—and among the Communist countries.

They are forming up in South America, Central America and Southeast Asia. Japan talks of making it all non-Communist Asia. A pact including many nations bordering the Pacific Ocean is a gleam in some economists' eyes. The Mideast is talking up the idea of a trading bloc.

Canada discusses a possible North American bloc to deal with the others. In this country some advocate that the United States and Canada join a North Atlantic trading bloc, along the lines of the North Atlantic military alliance. In his speech here Wednesday to the National Association of Manufacturers the President pointed out the growing economic power of the Communist bloc as a threat to the West.

But he went on to note that "some 90 per cent of the free world's industrial production may soon be concentrated in two great markets—the United States of America and an expanded European Common Market."

He proposed a "a joint step on both sides of the Atlantic" to see that the two sides of the Atlantic work together in economic peace, and thus benefit "the economies of all the countries of the free world."

Implying that trading blocs have outlasted older systems, he said, "a trade policy adequate to deal with a large number of small states is no longer adequate."

The European trading blocs are our immediate problem and the debate about what we should do is loud and increasing.

But let's also look at some of the others taking shape.

In Southeast Asia an economic association has been formed by Malaya, Thailand and the Philippines.

Japan and India have talked of the possibility of extending such a bloc in the future to gain trading advantages for all or most Asian non-Communists.

An even larger Pacific Ocean trade community has been suggested. It might include the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and other Pacific nations if they feel frozen out of the European markets.

A Latin-American trade area, along the lines of the European Common Market, hopes to start cutting duties among member states next month. Signed up are Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Bolivia, Paraguay, Peru, Mexico, Ecuador and Colombia.

A similar trading bloc in Central America aims at increasing trade between these small nations and bettering their world trade position.

Some African diplomats are thinking along the same lines as the Arab states.

Behind the trading-bloc idea:

1. Improving the economy of the member states by opening up their internal markets. The striking industrial growth of the European Common Market in a few years has impressed all nonmembers.

2. Forming a solid front against other trading nations. This may be used either to protect the internal industrial setup by handicapping outsiders, or to bargain for trading and tariff concessions from nonmembers.

3. And the far-out possibility of eventual union of all trading blocs of the non-Communist world. The talking point, sharply disputed by many, is that the resulting free trade among all nations would be harmful to a lot of individual help everyone in the long run, companies and industries.

Child Dies in Auto Accident

HINDSVILLE, Ark. (AP)—A 22-month-old boy was killed when an automobile driven by a 12-year-old brother overturned near this Madison County town today.

Four other children, all brothers and sisters, were in the car. Two of the others were admitted to a hospital.

Trooper James Cottrell identified the victim as Stuart Douglas Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Warren of Hindsville and the driver as Sherman Warren.

Cottrell said Sherman Warren lost control of the automobile on a curve of Highway 45 about four miles north of Hindsville.

The survivors were taken to a hospital at Hindsville.

Shannon Warren, 13, was admitted to the hospital with a broken leg and chest injuries, and his sister, Sharon Lee, 16, with possible internal injuries.

The other three were treated and released.

The Stuttgart Daily Leader notes that America's man in space program already has succeeded, semantically speaking.

A curious Daily Leader staffer, while editing the story of champ Enos' space flight, consulted a dictionary and learned that "Enos" means "man" in Hebrew.

So the United States already has had "Man" in space.

You've often heard a radio announcer advise you to write to "the station to which you are listening."

Ranger Jim Martin, who conducts a forestry program of KTIS, Little Rock, did that.

You guessed it. A listener promptly fired off a letter to "Ranger Jim Martin. In care of the station to which you are listening, Little Rock, Ark."

Fortunately Martin, who handles publicity for the State Forestry Commission, is so well known he got the letter anyhow.

Students at Harrison High School got carried away recently with enthusiasm as their basketball team was getting ready to open its season.

About 250 of the school's 500 students staged an impromptu pep rally during school hours. They just trooped outside and started hollering it up for the team.

Principal Joe Kraus took a dim view of the proceedings. He hustled the students back to class and said the school would ban pep rallies for the present.

The Batesville Guard waxed indignant when press reports said marble for the new federal building in Little Rock came from Carthage, Mo. The marble, it seems, is from the Batesville area.

Cuba to Seize Private Property

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The Cuban government will confiscate all property from persons leaving the island who do not return within an authorized time limit, Havana radio reported today.

The time limit was not announced. However, in a recent speech Prime Minister Fidel Castro mentioned a one-month leave for the United States, two months for Latin America and three months for Europe.

Even if the short-run results would be harmful to a lot of individual companies and industries.

She started deer hunting in 1960 and this year she killed a spike buck. Just for the record, Hathcock got his deer this year, too. Both were killed in Dallas County.

Two hundred and fifteen members of an unusual club met at Pine Bluff recently and drank a toast to departed friends.

The club—known as the Last Man Club—was formed on Armistice Day 1938 by 347 World War I veterans. Membership rolls were closed that first day. A bottle of Cognac was set aside for the last survivor of the group to drink. Since that day, 132 members have died. The club will continue to meet each Nov. 11 until the last man gets that bottle.

Rules Oral Land Deal Is Contract

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court ruled today that Worth W. Harrison, of Faulkner County has an enforceable oral contract for purchase of land from Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Oates of Little Rock.

The ruling reversed Faulkner Chancery Court which had upheld sale of the land to one Morris Gray.

The Supreme Court based its opinion on several letters from Oates to Harrison in which sale of the land was discussed.

Harrison rented 285 acres in Faulkner and Conway counties from the Oates in 1958 and agreed to buy the land for $12,500 as soon as he could raise $1,000 for a down payment. When Harrison later offered to buy the land, Oates told him he would sell it to Gray for $15,000.

Gray's contentions that he was an unwitting purchaser was overruled by the Supreme Court which said he should have investigated the agreement under which Harrison surrendered the land.

The Chancery Court was instructed to issue an order consistent with the Supreme Court's holding.

In a Garland Probate Court case, the Supreme Court held that the will of Ben F. Harrison gave his widow, Myrtle Harrison, the same dower interest in his estate that she would have got if he had died without a will.

Harrison left a one-third interest in his $96,000 estate to the widow and one-third each to two children — Ben J. Harrison and Natalie Gleaton.

The widow sued in an effort to get her dower interest as if Harrison had died intestate. The children replied to the suit by asking that a rental building worth $72,000 be sold to satisfy her interest.

The Probate Court held that the widow received the same rights under the will as she would have got if there were none. It also held that the building should be sold.

The Supreme Court reversed this finding and said rentals, which amount to about $1,400 a month, should be divided among the heirs.

Quick Soup for Cold Weather

Winter menus invite piping hot soup, and nothing warms and nourishes more quickly. Even though time is short, a good soup can easily be prepared. Use canned bouillon, or stock made with bouillon cubes, as a base.

QUICK FRENCH ONION SOUP

4 large onions, sliced 2 tsp. salt
1/4 cup butter, melted 1/2 tsp. paprika
6 cups beef bouillon 1/4 tsp. pepper
1 Tbsp. Lea & Perrins 2 hard rolls
Worcestershire sauce Grated Parmesan cheese

Peel onions and slice thin. Add to melted butter and cook slowly until tender but not brown. Add bouillon, Lea & Perrins Worcestershire, salt, paprika and pepper. Bring to boiling point, cover and simmer gently for 20 to 30 minutes, until onions are tender. Serve in deep bowls, each topped with a slice of hard roll sprinkled with cheese. If possible, place individual servings in heated soup bowls and slide these under the broiler to melt cheese just before serving. This soup develops flavor as it stands, and is excellent when reheated.

TV Clusters Commercials Frequently

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radi Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Is TV selling us more and are we enjoying it less?

Amid all the talk about trends, one which has been overlooked is TV's growing habit of clustering all sorts of commercials around that inevitable "pause for station identification" every half hour.

The other night I counted the commercials thrown at me from the moment the hero of one show delivered the villain to the local jail until the action-filled "teaser" of the next program showed a man being hit over the head.

There were six—and I am counting those "stay-tuned-to" exhortations about the following attraction as a commercial. They sure aren't entertainment, news or public affairs announcements.

On that particular occasion, the six consisted of a final sales spiel "the alternate sponsor," the usual plea to stay tuned to the next show, a network plug for a program to be broadcast the next night, two commercials crammed into the 40 seconds during which, in a flashing of an eye, the network and station identified itself, and finally, the first commercial of the next show. Added to this was the leisurely wind-up of the first show—with credits to everybody connected with the production, including the costumer's assistant—it lingered on the final group of lesser names in order to have the show's jazz theme come to an end—plus another credit list at the beginning of the new show.

An advertising man who was complaining about the increasing invasion of so-called "program time" by this sort of thing, estimated that networks and local stations are cutting about seven minutes out of every half-hour of TV commercial announcements are supposed to take three minutes out of 30.

Engineer Takes Train to Freedom

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP) — A daring railroad engineer and 24 friends and relatives hijacked an East German train Tuesday night and roared at 80 miles an hour past startled border guards to safety in West Berlin.

"We knew we would make it," said Harry Deterling, 28, the engineer. He said food shortages and political pressure had made life unbearable in East Germany.

Seven passengers not in on the plot—including the angry conductor—chose to return to the Communist sector. An East German switching locomotive pulled the steam locomotive and eight cars of the escape train back over the little-used section of track to East Germany.

The well-planned escape—hastened by reports the Communists were planning to block the section of track Dec. 10—came off without a hitch.

Border police, taken by surprise, didn't fire a shot.

Deterling said he began planning the escape last Thursday with Hartmut Lichy, his fireman, members of his family and friends. The escapees included the engineer's mother, wife and four children.

Deterling arranged to make an "acquaintance run" on the Oranienburg-Albrechtshof line.

"Everybody was told to be at Oranienburg station for the departure of the regular late evening train to Albrechtshof. We were 21 in all. That included an 8-day-old baby born only a day before we planned the escape."

The other four got on at Falkensee, the next to last stop. Albrechtshof, the last stop on the line, is about a quarter of a mile short of the border.

Deterling said a transport policeman aboard and the conductor went wild when they realized the train wasn't stopping at Albrechtshof.

"But what could they do but shout?" Deterling related smilingly. "We had disconnected the emergency braking system. They couldn't stop the train."

British Deplores Fighting by UN

LONDON (AP) — The British government declared today that U.N. forces in strife-torn Katanga have no right to attempt to impose a political solution by force.

Deputy Foreign Secretary Edward Heath, in the House of Commons, reiterated that the British government believes the United Nations should try continually to achieve a settlement between the central Congo government and President Moïse Tshombe's breakaway regime in Katanga.

U. S. Presses Plan to Send Man in Orbit

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States pressed ahead today toward its goal of orbiting a man around the world this year. Scientists, engineers and technicians worked round the clock and astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., the chosen pilot, began extensive preparation in a "ready room" not far from the launching pad.

If all goes right, the attempt could be made as early as Dec. 20. Technical problems could delay the launching, and major trouble could push it into 1962.

Glenn moved Monday into special quarters on the Cape so he could be near all key centers of Project Mercury operations.

Not far away are the launching pad where the huge Atlas booster rocket was erected Saturday. Not far away are the launching hangar where Glenn's spacecraft is undergoing thorough checkout, the Mercury control center, nerve center of the operation, and a ground-based capsule where he can run through simulated flights of his projected three times around the world mission.

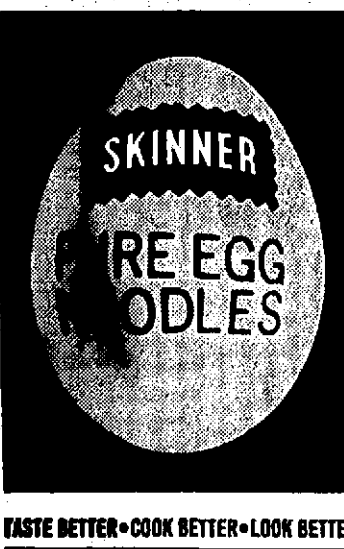

The "ready room" is the same lodging occupied by astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil I. Grissom for a few days before their 15-minute suborbital flights earlier this year.

With a more demanding assignment before him, Glenn, 40, a Marine lieutenant colonel, entered the quarters early to prepare for the flight. He will undergo periodic physical and psychological examinations, bone up on space roadmaps so stars and ground features will be readily recognized when he looks out of his spaceship as it zips around the world at 17,500 miles an hour, and he will hold numerous consultations on progress of the missile and capsule.

Glenn will live in the quarters most of the time until launching. But he will be able to leave the Cape when his training does not restrict him. His wife, Anna, their two children will remain at their home in Arlington, Va.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has not announced that manned orbit will be tried this year. But it is known officials want to achieve it in 1961, the same year as the Soviet Union.

Soup 'N Cracker Treats Delight All

For everyday lunch... or any day supper... brimming bowls of hot hearty soup with lots of crisp crackers plus dessert make an ideal cold weather menu.

With today's convenience foods, it's an easy menu, too. A "chuck-full-of-rich-flavor" canned condensed soup can be served "as is" or used as the base for a tempting new soup. For instance, condensed chicken vegetable soup is made chowder good with the addition of other pantry-shelf items like canned whole kernel corn and curry powder.

The cracker go-withs can be an assortment of crackers right from the box or can be one favorite cracker topped with herb butter or spread with cheese.

Dessert... can run the gamut of wonderful things... but why not frozen puff pastry apple dumplings. They're great!

Curried Chicken And Corn Chowder

1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed chicken vegetable soup
1 soup can liquid (liquid from corn plus water)
1 can (8 ounces) whole kernel corn, drained
1/2 teaspoon curry powder
2 teaspoons chopped parsley
Combine soup and liquid. Add remaining ingredients. Heat; stir now and then. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Cheese And Cracker Treats

1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 tablespoon India relish
Round butter crackers
Pimiento

Blend cream cheese and relish. Spread on crackers; garnish with pieces of pimiento.

HOURS TO KILL

BY URSULA CURTIS

Chapter XXII

If she had not been so tense, Margaret could have laughed at Hilary's jaw-dropped expression, the look attributed to undercover agents who discover a scorned underling is a superior they have been ordered to contact.

Margaret went on fixing her with a compelling eye. "But you saw who the letter was to."

"Mrs. Foale."

"Dear Mrs. Foale, or Dear Isabel?"

If Hilary noticed this lapse from virtue she didn't show it. "Dear Isabel. Can I have scrambled eggs for lunch?"

"In a minute. Who was the letter from?" Adults glanced automatically at signatures, but did children?

At least Hilary had. For the first time since Margaret had seen her, a cool little bathrobed figure in the doorway of the hall, she was visibly shaken, not far from defiant tears, at something that bothered and bewildered any eight-year-old. But all she said was, stonily, "I don't know. Some man."

Margaret knew from that, there was no need to say pressingly, "Philip?" She wouldn't have in any case. Apart from Hilary's sensibilities (remarkably bouncy), what if Cornelia knew all about Philip's affair with Mrs. Foale and the two of them had been putting up an airy front for her, Margaret?

In that case, if she gave any more emphasis to it, Hilary would go back to her parents—in the unlikely event that they ever came for her—full of Philip's involvement with Another Woman, Margaret's black suspicions, any embroidery that occurred to her. The Revertons, in the manner of close friends, would hardly keep this to themselves. Philip's deception might easily get back to the home office in New York, cause irreparable gossip, earn her a well-deserved bitterness in every quarter.

Unconsciously, Margaret had arrived at a landmark. The bare possibility in her mind now was now that there might be something wrong, but that everything might still be all right.

Cornelia was a tireless shopper. And so on. It seemed impossible that a man could have been even briefly in love with one and then the other.

And there was the matter of no doctor for Cornelia. Philip had an imperious streak, and it was difficult to imagine him submitting meekly to a diagnosis by telegram, epidemic or not. For that matter, it was hard to believe that not a doctor in the town had been able to make a house call.

Margaret brought Hilary her scrambled eggs, bread and butter because she couldn't manage toast yet, and a glass of milk that Hilary turned down in favor of ginger ale. Coming back, she said chatty although she knew the answer, "Did Cornelia have a sore throat, too?"

"No, she just had awful pains in her stomach and she threw up all the time. I didn't see her much, though. I irritated her," said Hilary primly.

Margaret let that go. She said presently, "Well, whatever medicine she had fixed her up, and it will you too."

"But she had to change hers."

"She did?"

Hilary nodded, dropping a large cluster of egg on her bed-sensibilities (remarkably bouncy), spread and brushing it tidily off onto the floor. "She said it made her sicker, so Philip called the doctor and took it back to the drugstore and got something else."

Careful, careful. "Unfortunately, you can't take medicine back," said Margaret lightly. "You're stuck with it."

"Well, Philip took it back. I wanted the bottle to keep paste in and he said he had to give it to the druggist. Will you play a game of checkers?"

"Yes," said Margaret, and she did. Red and black, an occupation for her fingers that didn't touch her mind. Antibiotics often had taken the bottle away with him—side effects, but why had Philip and why, if the capsules made her so sick, had Cornelia kept one?

"You can't jump your own man," said Hilary loudly.

"Oh, I guess I can't. Where was I—here?"

Economic School Study Planned

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An Arkansas Joint Council on Economic Education will be set up in February to develop plans for introducing a study of the American economic system in Arkansas schools.

State Education Commissioner Arch Ford, who announced the plan, said the proposed program unlike each other that attraction would be adapted to the current to one would almost preclude a traction to the other. Margaret was rather untidy by nature; Cornelia was as neat as a card index. Margaret had flashes of depression; Cornelia was equable with the long cool memory that goes with it. Margaret had to be dragged into stores by Philip; try would make up the other half.

Office Phones Strictly for Business

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Now and then a memo such as this is circulated in every office in America:

"These phones are strictly for the conduct of company business, upon which the livelihood of the firm depends. Employees wishing to make emergency private calls during working hours will please use the pay telephones in the corridor."

Management always launches these memos with high hopes, but they would be just as effective if they were printed in Chinese, and floated out to sea in a sealed bottle.

For a day or two the hired hands dutifully drop their coins in the pay phone, then they go back one by one, to slipping their private calls through the office switchboard again. In two weeks everything is back to normal, which means—the switchboard is so swamped with personal calls that anyone having to make a call on company business has to go out and use the pay phone in the corridor.

Who makes all these private calls, and what is the desperate nature of their emergencies? Well, here are a few typical characters you have probably overheard in your own office:

Hungry Harry—Life is just one long coffee break to him. Three times a day he phones the drug-store lunch counter for java, sandwiches, doughnuts, pie, and cheesecake. At 5:15 he makes his final call: "Tush up some sodium bicarb, Joe, my stomach feels kinda tense."

Helpful Herbert—In the sweet name of charity he calls a dozen acquaintances a day to sell tickets for his lodge's latest raffle. "For only four-bits you get a chance to win a $4,000 convertible and a free trip to Puerto Rico," he says. "How many shall I put you down for?" For every 12 tickets he sells,

Harb gets a free one himself. High-fashion Hortense—The secretary does her shopping by phone whenever the boss is in conference. "What have you got new in cocktail dresses at about $39.95?" she asks her favorite department store saleslady. And that ties up that phone line for 45 minutes.

Odds-On Ollie—The office gambler usually places four calls with his bookie in the morning, and three in the afternoon. The bookie usually calls him back three times in the morning and four times in the afternoon. Net result at closing time: Ollie has lost two bucks.

Casanova Charlie—He picks up his desk phone and croons to Nellie, the giddy new switchboard operator, "Talk to me, baby, I've had a lonesome life." While he and Nellie pitch vocal woo, the switchboard is tied up completely. She can't be bothered putting through any other calls.

Homebody Hubert—Every half hour he phones home to see if his shirts got back from the laundry, if the baby has broken out with the measles or a new tooth, if his wife wants to go to a movie that night, if so, which movie, to ask what'll they have for dinner, should he stop to pick up anything, and whether anything new has happened since he called half an hour before.

Old Bubblehead Himself—The boss only makes two kinds of personal calls. In the morning he buddies in other firms trying to set up a golf foursome. In the afternoon—if he isn't playing golf—he phones his broker six times to say, "Remember now, if Amalgamated Twiddlywinks goes up to 87, sell every share I've got and put it all in International Widgits, that is, if International Widgits is holding steady."

The great mystery of American industry is this: "With all these emergency personal messages tying up office switchboards, how does any business firm ever manage to get any business done?"

The answer is simple. No business is transacted in offices anymore. It's all done in restaurants during those three-hour lunches. The office phones are now merely another employee fringe benefit.

Church Meet in India Has Ended

By GEORGE CORNELL

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The international get-together of Christians was over today with a prayer, a promise, and a record.

The record of the 18-day general assembly of the World Council of Churches took up 6 1/2 tons of paper.

The prayer and promise were couched in words uttered in unison in closing devotions Tuesday night by churchmen of nearly every nation.

Planned for use in home congregations, especially in interdenominational services, the text included this petition and pledge to Christ:

"Together, we commit ourselves anew to bear witness to Him among men. We offer ourselves to serve all men in love, that love which He alone imparts. "We accept afresh our calling to make visible our unity in Him. We pray for the gift of the Holy Spirit for our task."

In its final business session, the assembly adopted a message to the farflung congregations of its 198 member denomination.

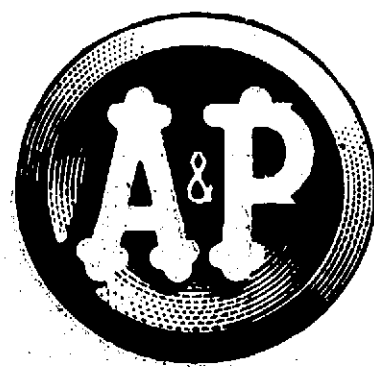

It said that amid sweeping technological, political and social revolutions in modern life, there are both new possibilities for good and threats of destruction.

"God is at work in opening possibilities for mankind in our day. He is at work even when the powers of evil rebel against Him and call down His judgment," the message said.

Attlee Real Ill

LONDON (AP)—Earl Attlee, 78, the former British prime minister, was reported "very seriously ill" today in Amersham Hospital. The elder statesman of the Labor party was admitted Tuesday to the hospital near his home north of London.

Doctors declined to disclose the exact nature of the illness.

The Lighter Side of Life in America

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One of the things that have helped keep modern man from being completely swamped by the rising tide of femininity is the illusion that his ancestors were real he-men.

We have always thought of ourselves as being descendants of the cave man, who tramped about the prehistoric landscape swinging a club and dragging his mate along by her blonde tresses.

This concept has served to strengthen and succor us at times when we were being intimidated by our women folks. The ladies didn't dare push us too far for fear we might revert to type.

But now comes the National Geographic Society with a report that we poor blokes no longer have even that thin reed to sustain us.

Artistic Sort

Anthropologists have discovered, says the Geographic, that the cave dweller was not really the bottle-browed brute that we have fancied all these years.

Actually, he was kind of an artistic sort, who used paints, went on hunting trips with his buddies and fooled around with his tools in the familiar do-it-yourself manner.

These findings came to light as a result of excavations into the ancient dwelling places of the Neanderthals, who lived some 40,000 years ago.

It is true that the Neanderthal man had a receding forehead and a ridge over his eyes, and walked with an ape-like slouch. But beneath that hairy exterior beat perhaps a heart of pure gold.

Indications are that the Neanderthals took good care of their sick and aged, and possibly got credit for performing the first surgical operation.

High Culture

At least one anthropologist, Dr. Carleton S. Coon of the University of Pennsylvania, has marked them down as having a higher material culture than some in existence today.

Furthermore, he averred that there are persons living now "who in one way or another would not be out of place in a Neanderthal cave."

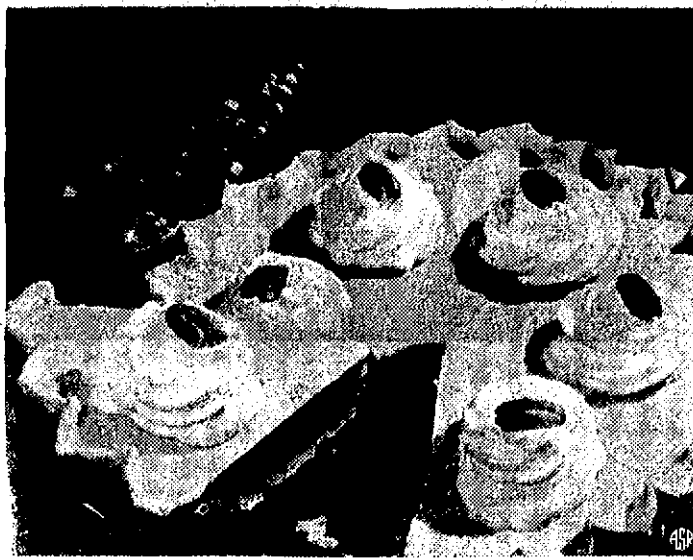

"These are not all humble people or failures in life," Dr. Coon said. "The Neanderthal stamp also turns up in exclusive clubs."

Dr. Coon mentioned no names, but I would be able to confirm his observations among my own acquaintances.

In some ways, it is heartening to know that the cave man was not as bad as he had been pictured. But in other ways, I find the whole thing rather discouraging.

As yet there is no scientific evidence to back me up, but I pre-

U. S. Smokers Liking Cigars Some Better

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Americans are smoking more cigars this year than any time since 1923—fewer from Havana this year than last, but more made of tobacco grown in the Philippines, Sumatra, Java and Puerto Rico.

Uncle Sam's troubles with Fidel Castro as yet have brought no ban on tobacco imports—as they did long against sugar, an embargo extended Monday by President Kennedy until next June 30.

But Carl J. Carlson, president of the Cigar Manufacturers Association of America, said in an interview that legal disputes over ownership of Cuban trademarks registered here have cut cigar imports by 48 per cent this year. He said crop difficulties in some Cuban districts may have caused the 12 per cent drop in imports of Cuban tobacco to be made into cigars here.

Cigars of Cuban tobacco are only a small part of the big American market. They have been a top item for many small cigar-making shops around the country, and especially for the makers concentrating in the Tampa, Fla., area.

In the first nine months of the year, U.S. Bureau of Census figures put total value of Cuban tobacco imports at $19.6 million, compared with $23.5 million in the same period last year. The total for 1960 was $31 million.

Total cigar leaf tobacco stocks are well ahead of a year ago. Department of Agriculture figures put stocks at 354.3 million pounds, of which 40 million pounds are of Cuban origin. This compares with a total of 342.9 million pounds a year ago, when Cuban stocks were 43.4 million pounds.

While Cuban stocks were slipping in the 12 months, holdings of Philippine tobacco gained 1.9 million pounds and Sumatra-Java and other foreign cigar types 7.3 million pounds.

The headlines go to occasional rumors that imports of the Cuban product may be cut off to chastise Castro, but what the cigar men themselves most like to talk about is the steady comeback in sales of cigars—all cigars, of which the Cuban product is only a fraction. Total sales had slipped badly after the first World War when Americans flocked to the cigarette instead.

Eugene L. Raymond, president of the Cigar Institute of America, said in an interview that the comeback has been due to the industry's turning to making cigars of the size and type young men will buy, and to pounding home the idea that cigar smokers are acceptable in all circles.

The best seller is the five-cent cigar, about 24 per cent of the total, and next is the 10-cent, 19 per cent of the total, with most of the rest priced in between, and only 11 per cent costing more than a dime.

Describes Jet Sale to Slavs as Beneficial

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department describes the sale of 278 jet aircraft to Yugoslavia as beneficial to the United States because the planes help the Yugoslavs maintain their independence from Moscow.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., today made public a letter in which Brook Hays, as assistant secretary of state for congressional relations, asserted "it is clear that Yugoslavia's independence and resistance to Soviet imperialism have directly benefited the United States."

The letter, dated Nov. 28, was in reply to Tower's request for a recapitulation of the history of the Yugoslav aid program. The senator said there had been complaints from his state against the sale and against the training of Yugoslav pilots in Texas in the use of the jets.

Hays said the contract for sale of the jet aircraft was signed last March after approval by both the State and Defense departments on the grounds it was in accordance with the best interest of the United States.

He said the aircraft are outdated from the standpoint of U.S. military needs and any assumption that they have any strategic significance to this country is illfounded.

Since the date of the letter, Hays has been shifted from the State Department to President Kennedy's White House staff.

The Arkansas Federation of Labor was chartered in 1904.

A Glance at a Week of Science

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The push to orbit a U.S. astronaut before the end of the year, some curious facts about space-going chimpanzees, and saving calories in weightlessness are subjects for science at work:

Next!

U.S. Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., at 40 the oldest of the seven American space candidates, may be the first to orbit the earth.

He is now lodged in the astronaut ready room at Cape Canaveral, Fla., waiting for his chance which may come before New Year's Day.

Glenn's quarters in Hangar S on the sprawling missile base are only a few steps away from the area where space-going chimpanzees Enos and Ham were prepared for their space flights. Newer, more complete astronaut quarters are being planned for the cape.

Enos and Brethren

Chimpanzees, like Enos and Ham, are mightier than men in many ways.

The men who handle the space chimpanzees say that these apes are 4½ times as strong as men of similar weight. Chimpanzees have been found which stand up to 5½ feet tall, and have an arm spread of 6 feet.

Although the average life span of chimpanzees is usually in the thirties, some have been known to live 45 years. Most of the space chimpanzees are young—5 to 6 years old, and small—about 40 pounds.

Space Diet

An astronaut—gliding in weightlessness through space—will probably need no more than some 2,400 calories a day in meals, a scientist suggests.

At work, the space pilot's efforts that on earth would cost some 216 calories per hour working against gravity, would cost only 144 calories an hour in weightlessness.

Under our normal gravity on earth, a space pilot resting, but awake, would use 94 calories an hour, but would use only 35 calories an hour resting and awake without gravity to contend with.

Sleeping, on earth or in space, the cost in calories is about the same—some 65 calories an hour, said Dr. Carlsbe C. Adams, president of the National Research and Development Corp.

Father to Meet Wandering Son

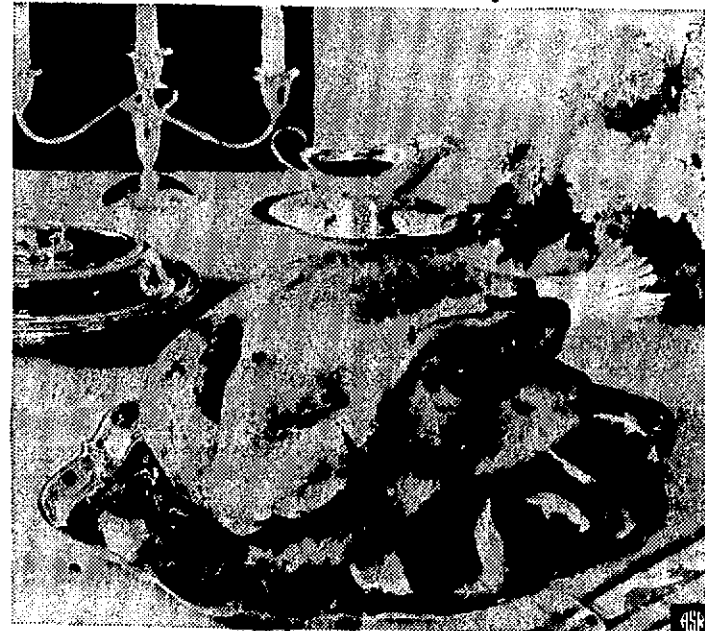

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A Cincinnati father was en route here today for reunion with his 3-year-old son who was found wandering alone in downtown Jacksonville a week ago.

Kenneth Deel, is expected to seek court permission to assume custody of his son, Kenneth Jr. Deel contacted authorities after seeing the boy's picture in a Cincinnati newspaper. He said his wife had custody of the child since their separation several months ago. Her whereabouts and how the child got to Jacksonville remained a mystery.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—South African Zulu leader Albert Lutuli left Johannesburg today for Oslo to collect his 1960 Nobel Peace Prize.

Tips On Turkey

A plump, golden turkey on the holiday table is a grand old American tradition. Make yours the best ever this year by keeping a few simple tips in mind:

• Estimate the number of servings you will want—and don't forget to figure enough for some leftovers. A six- to eight-pound bird serves about 10; a 14- to 16-pound bird serves about 20.

• Keep frozen turkey in its wrapper to retain the moisture and let it thaw in the refrigerator. A small turkey requires 12 hours, a large one 24 hours. Remove wrapped giblets from the cavity.

• Wash turkey in cold running water. Pat the inside dry with paper toweling and leave the outside moist.

• Sprinkle the skin and cavities with Ac'cent to heighten the natural turkey flavor and emphasize the juicy quality of the meat. Use ¾ teaspoon Ac'cent per pound of turkey. Sprinkle half the amount over the skin and inside the cavities; divide remainder between stuffing and gravy.

• The Ac'cent in the stuffing and gravy brings out the full flavor of the individual ingredients and combines them in a harmonious whole.

• Allow about 1 cup stuffing per pound of bird. Bake any leftover stuffing in a buttered casserole or aluminum foil during the last half hour of roasting time.

• Pack the stuffing loosely; it swells during the roasting.

• Once the bird is cooked, let it stand for 20 to 30 minutes before serving; it gives the juices time to be absorbed and makes the bird easier to carve.

Sees More Yule Music in Churches

By MARY CAMPBELL
NEW YORK (AP)—"It is my prediction that there will be more Christmas music in the churches, on the radio and on TV this Christmas than ever before," says Dr. Jesse M. Bader, general secretary of the World Convention of Churches of Christ (Disciples).
"Why? Because our world needs the Christ of Christmas now more than ever. Today America is called upon to make him central and not marginal."
Dr. Bader predicted further: "There will be more window displays with Christmas scenes and more carol singing in communities across our land. There will be a much greater exchange of appropriate religious Christmas cards."

On the latter point, the Greeting Card Association already is able to say that Dr. Bader is correct. This year three billion Christmas cards will go through the mail, the association says, and approximately 30 per cent will be religious in design and message. Ten years ago about 10 per cent were religious in theme. The increase has been steady throughout the decade.

This year brief and simple messages inside religious cards are used more often than, but not to the exclusion of, poems, Scripture passages and prayers.

The Madonna and Child is the most popular design for the religious cards, as it was last year and has been since 1949. This year Madonnas are depicted on 16.2 per cent of the religious cards. Manager scenes, which ranked second in 1960, are a somewhat closer second this year—15.5 per cent.

Thinks TV Watchers Not an Audience

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The millions of people who watch television are not, in a real sense, an audience, in the opinion of actor George C. Scott.

A serious actor who performs in perhaps four or five television plays a year, Scott believes that the relationship between a live audience and the performers on the stage is a vital ingredient to good theater.

"And you can never conquer that problem," predicted Scott. "But that does not mean that television acting is not important for an actor. It is very exciting, hectic and pressured, and often these elements combine to build up superb performances."

Scott says that TV has been the meat and potatoes of actors since the death of stock, but he observed that most young performers move into television from the stage — rarely the other way around.

"Motion pictures seem to breed and nurture their own, and few young people go to Hollywood to start out these days," Scott reflected. "It's impossible now to come to New York and break directly into television, as you could 9 or 10 years ago. I suspect that most of the young talent is com-

Merry Christmas Treats Are Tasty!

These Kris Kringle Tarts combine the sweet and tart flavor of raisins and cranberries. Cut-outs of bells, stars, and other Christmas shapes give a festive look to these succulent holiday desserts. The filling for the tarts is thickened with quick-cooking tapioca to help keep the juices clear and sparkling . . . and just the right consistency.

Kris Kringle Tarts
3½ tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
1½ cups sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup seedless raisins
3 cups fresh cranberries
Mix tapioca, sugar, salt, raisins, cranberries, and water in a saucepan. Cover and bring to a boil. Cool, stirring occasionally. Add orange rind and nuts.
Line five or six 4-inch tart pans with pastry rolled ¼ inch thick. Roll remaining pastry ¼ inch thick and cut out stars, bells, Santas, trees, or any desired designs with cookie cutters. Fill tart shells with fruit mixture. Arrange pastry cutouts on top. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) about 25 to 30 minutes, or until syrup boils with heavy bubbles that do not burst. Makes 5 or 6 tarts.

These Earth People Are in a Mess

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — If an outer-space psychiatrist had been watching earth people these past 20 years, he might conclude: "Get them a doctor; they look disturbed."

Thursday, 20 years after Pearl Harbor, earth people who were in a dreadful mess then are in an awful mess now, although now they're not shooting at each other, except for here and there. But they're prepared to shoot, and they tell each other so.

There's no solution in sight. As President Kennedy said when he took office, there may be none in our lifetime.

In these 20 years the most overwhelming lesson earth people have learned is how to kill themselves quicker and easier. They've graduated from TNT bombs to nuclear ones, from hitting a railroad center to wiping out cities. Only an outer-space man, with an upside-down look at the earth, could appreciate how down-side up it is.

Old friends have become new enemies. Old enemies are new friends. Capitalism and communism, which had no trouble teaming up to wipe out fascism, now, in the off-Broadway.

Scott himself is concerned about the number of musical shows and Broadway theater — particularly the hit-or-flop condition of the theater and people go to see musicals because of expense accounts — how else to pay $9.90 a ticket? I think the only salvation of the theater—the last temple of free thought and emotion—will be municipally sponsored shows, produced out of New York."

Americans Getting Soft Says JFK

NEW YORK (AP) — President John F. Kennedy, a former Harvard junior varsity player and the nation's No. 1 touch football fan, wants no part of the current controversy over whether baseball or football now is the national pastime.

But, grinning, he advises Notre Dame not to give back its controversial 17-15 victory over Syracuse last month.

Referring to a close victory of his own in 1960, he said he had no intention of giving that back. The President was the featured speaker Tuesday night at the annual awards dinner of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame. He was the recipient of the foundation's Gold Medal Award, given for the example he has set in recognizing the major role of amateur athletics in fostering moral values and leadership.

He shared the head table with eight former players and one of two former coaches who were inducted into the Hall of Fame and eight others honored as scholar athletes.

Referring to the baseball-football controversy, he said: "The sad fact is that it looks more and more as if our great national sport is not playing at all—but watching. We have become more and more not a nation of athletes, but a nation of spectators. The result of this shift from participation to—if I may coin a word—speculation is all too visible in the physical condition of our population."

Kennedy called the American people physically soft as a result of push button living.

"We are under-exercised as a nation," he said. "We look instead of play, ride instead of walk. Our push-button existence deprives us of the minimum of physical activity essential for healthy living."

He called for a long, serious look at the nation's physical condition, and for a change in the way millions of Americans live.

Kennedy took time out from his dinner to visit a group of Alabama alumni and transmit a message to a student rally underway at Tuscaloosa, Ala., congratulating the Crimson Tide on its undefeated season and its invitation to the Sugar Bowl.

Paul (Bear) Bryant, Alabama coach, and quarterback Pat Trammell accepted the MacArthur Bowl at the dinner on behalf of the Crimson Tide, selected by the foundation as the nation's top team.

Bryant called his team — also selected by The Associated Press as the best in the country — "the best I've been associated with in all my career."

Former players inducted into the Hall of Fame were halfback Glenn Davis of Army (1944-46); Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice, North Carolina halfback (1946-49); George McAfee, Duke halfback (1937-39); Bob Reynolds, Stanford tackle (1933-35); Bob Saffridge, Tennessee guard (1938-40); Weldon Humble, Rice guard (1941-42, 1946); Pat Pazzetti, Lehigh and Wesleyan quarterback (1908-1912) and Claude Reeds, Oklahoma halfback (1910-13).

Coaches added to the Hall of Fame were Don Faurot, athletic director and former coach at Missouri, and the late Charlie Caldwell of Princeton, Yale and Williams.

Plugs for a New Ark. Co-op Plant

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Douglas G. Wright, administrator of the Southwestern Power Administration, is plugging for a 60,000-kilowatt generating plant on the east side of Arkansas.

Such a facility would match a plant of similar capacity now being constructed at Ozark to serve co-operators in the north and west parts of the state.

Wright told directors of the 18 Arkansas electric co-operators Tuesday that construction of another plant was something which would have to be done "if you're going to deal with me."

He said that use of interconnected lines for transmission and exchange of power was necessary for smooth flow of electric energy to all areas.

For that reason, he said, the Arkansas co-operators should not be so pleased with success of their Ozark plant that they "get too big for your britches."

"You may need these other people," he added, referring to other power sources.

Earl Walden of Jonesboro, manager of the Craighead Electric Co-operative, was elected president of the state group.

He succeeds Perry L. Rushing of Fayetteville, manager of the Ozarks Electric Co-operative Association.

Department of Health, Education and Welfare says an American's life expectancy in that time has risen from 64 to 69 years, which is nice to think about, if he can make it.

Wear Your Own Crown Of Light

Shining Flaxen Blonde hair casts its own lovely glow — reaches out — like the light of a candle. Traditionally, on Santa Lucia's Day, December 13th, beautiful blonde Swedish girls wear a crown of bayberry with five lighted candles. Santa Lucia's Day has been celebrated since medieval times.
A young woman can be a lady of light — not only on Santa Lucia's Day but all through the year. Blonde hair is like a lovely crowning light — magnetizing attention. The blondeness of youth now can be regained with a simple application of a new shade of Miss Clairol Hair Color Bath. This is a really new shade, the first to be added in ten years. Miss Clairol's beautiful new Flaxen Blonde, a pale baby blonde, will create blondeness on mossy brown hair. The result is the blonde look of the legendary "Northern Princess" with soft and shining pale blonde hair.
